Puccioni is a 120 years old establishment with much knowledge and experience with innovative products.

Although the world market of fertilizers is particularly structured and complicated today, the Puccioni Company has demonstrated that it still knows how to compete and supply their customers with a wide range of technical products to satisfy the nutritional needs of different cultivations.

The Company has expanded even more and has taken its fertilizers to the remotest corners of the world, where it has put itself to the test by trying out its fertilizers on different climatic conditions and cultivational needs and at the same time brilliantly resolving logistic difficulties.

It has continued to invest and its offer of fertilizers has been further enriched with stimulants, micro-elements and foliar fertilizers, because it is convinced that it has to meet the ever increasing global specialistic demands of its customers.

The message the Company wants to give to all those who have used its fertilizers and to those who are thinking of using them, is simple: they can rely on its presence on the market and its industrial ability to innovate, invest and look ahead. Puccioni has produced fertilizers for more than 120 years and it guarantees it will continue to do so in the future, with all the passion, professionalism and managing skills of which it is capable.

The Company

Puccioni was founded in 1888 as a production company for fertilizers and for over 120 years it has confirmed its industrial vocation. Over this long arc of time the company has developed a great technical experience in the formulation of fertilizers which has allowed them to respond, with a catalogue of professional products, to the increasing technical and commercial needs of an agriculture always more complex and specialized. The constant commitment of developing efficient nutritional products, the continuous improvement in quality and the professional competence of their workers, has allowed Puccioni to be top of the market for quality and productive capability, for logistic and range competence.

Recently our production has been enriched with biostimulants, micronutrients and foliar fertilizers. In this way, Puccioni is set as global player in the world scenario of fertilizer producers.

Products

The Puccioni fertilizers, granular, liquid and water-soluble, are always characterized by a high nutritional efficiency and are produced with the greatest care, in order that nutrients may always show the best benefit for the culture.

For example, in granular formulates, the acid pH and the high sulfur content make easier the availability of phosphorus and microelements as well as they function as nutritionals.

Plants

The productive site covers an area of 110.000 square metres of which 35.000 are covered and comprises the production and packaging plant and the warehouses for the raw materials and the finished products, the coastal depots for sulphuric acid
